BRIEF ABSTRACT OF LETTER.

Recommends sanction to incur an expenditure of Rs 10 per mensem for the above from the funds of the Sri Chamarajeswaraswami temple

NOTES AND ORDERS.

The facts of the case are as follows:—

In November 1908 the archak of this minor temple requested that the allowance of ½ a seer of rice etc for Dadhyodana Nivedana every day that was being given since July 1902 under the oral order of the then Amildar might be continued. The Peshkar reported that the allowance in question was being given from the provision made in the Tasdik Patti for the Annamanivedana at nights and solicited orders for its continuance or otherwise. The Amildar recommended ~~sanction~~ the continuance of the allowance and the Sub Dy officer supported it. But the Dy Comr ordered that the revised Tasdik Patti of 1898 should be adhered to and observed that as no provision had been made in the Tasdik Patti of 1898 any grant that may be required has to be sanctioned by Govt and called for references from accounts for 10 years previous to 1898 as to the amount that was being expended for Mahanivedana in the temple. The Peshkar reported that there was no provision in the accounts for Nivedana in this temple but sent a copy of the Tasdik Patti of the temple for 1827-28 in which a provision of 5 seers of rice per day for Nivedana had been made.

On this basis the Amildar recommends an allowance not exceeding 2½ seers of rice per day or Rs 10 per month and the S. Dy officer supports it.

It is also reported that 57½ seers cooked rice will at times become insufficient for the minor deities and a separate provision is necessary as the deity in question is an important one inside the Prakara of Chamaraja vara temple and is on the right-side of the Dvara temple. The building is only next in importance to that of Dvara ~~temple~~ and the deity is one of the principal ones in the temple.

The Dy Comr makes the recommendation after personal inspection in August 13. Submd for orders.

Sri Chamundeswari temple had a large Jagir granted by the late Sthanees but as the Jagir was incorporated in that of the Sri Chamaraja vara and the building located inside the main temple, the former temple has come to be treated as a minor one in the scale of expenditure. It has however a separate staff of servants but has to look to the allotments for Dvara temple for Abhisheka articles etc

Since 1898 one half of rice allotted for Navaratra to the Annamanna temple appears to have been used for Naivedya in the Chamundeswari temple but this was directed after D2 came in 191 the stopped as being against the fixed scale. Hence the present requisition. At present the Sattvikagar Naivedya is made available for this temple. This is considered reasonable factor as the temple is a principal one and the hair offered would be substantial.

On a perusal of the Jagir Ratii it seems to be understood that provision of Rs 2½ lacs for this temple was omitted by inadvertence. It is now proposed to provide 2½ lacs Rs every year for this deity and this is one half of the provision for the Annaswamy temple. The recommendation of the DC cannot therefore be sanctioned
